The convention adjourned until 8:20 o'clock p. m.

EVENING SESSION.

The convention was called to order at 9 p. m. No committee reports being presented there were loud calls for order. Mr. Hubbard, who, taking the platform, delivered an eloquent address which was heartily applauded. Towards the close an amusing incident occurred, occasioned by the interruption of Marshal G. Tracy, who denied that Blaine had ever been a Know-nothing. An exciting but good humored colloquy occurred which turned the convention almost into a pandemonium. Hubbard every time with his brilliant repartee. At the conclusion of his speech the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

It is believed that the committee on permanent organization will submit the following report at to-morrow morning's session:

President: E. Upton of Fayette county; vice-presidents: First district, T. L. Epperson; Second district, S. W. Blount, Sr.; Third district, Barney B. Hart; Fourth district, W. A. Wortham; Fifth district, Joseph Beddoe; Sixth district, D. A. Williams; Seventh district, G. R. Scott; Eighth district, Wells Thompson; Ninth district, George Clark; Tenth district, W. V. Martin; Eleventh district, W. R. Shannon; secretary, George W. Finger; reading secretary, J. W. Booth; assistant secretaries, J. E. Hunter, H. Kirby and C. E. Gilbert; sergeant-at-arms, M. M. Bogges. The committee also recommended the following order of nominations: Governor, Lieutenant governor, comptroller, treasurer, commissioner of general land office, attorney-general, superintendent of public instruction and electors.

Great interest has been manifested in the Clay county contest, and the committee on credentials held a long and stormy session to-night to discuss it. A. K. Swan represented the battling delegation. Before the committee he denounced the regular convention as composed of Greenbackers, Republicans and fence cutters and appealed to the committee to seat his delegation because it would vote for which he said was endorsed by all the virtue and intelligence of Clay county. Mr. F. G. Bransford replied for the regular delegation in a crisp and forcible speech in which he repudiated the charges of Mr. Swan and showed that the postscriptum only battled after finding out that there was a four-fifths majority against them. He said the principal reason Swan thought they were not simon-pure Democrats was because they were not for him.

Mr. Bransford made a telling speech in favor of four-fifths and the Democratic voters of Clay county and were frequently applauded. The committee finally decided to seat both delegations. This action is very severely criticised by many as it opens the way for a bolt in every county where there is the least division of action.

NO MATTER HOW SMALL.

can bolt the organization and sit in judgment of the Democracy of their peers representing five times their own strength. The point is also made that it is an invitation for the free-grass men to bolt whenever and wherever they please. If they choose they can assert that the lease law is undemocratic, and no one who supports it is a Democrat, and kick out the entire party but themselves. This is especially significant since Swan urged as a reason why he should be seated that he and his party were for the lease.

A GREAT DEAL OF BITTERNESS.

has been engendered by the contest, and its result will only serve to intensify it. Free-grass men want to know if they are to be kicked out of the party because they are free-grass men, and they want to know it right away. A good many of them say that if it is to be officially declared that they are willing to walk out without more ado. The action of the committee on credentials virtually amounts to this, as it practically indorses the charge of the representatives of a convention of fifty men that a convention of 400 men was not Democratic because its delegation

IS OPPOSED TO THE LEASE LAW.

There is no doubt that the committee has made a mistake, and it is one that is likely to give trouble.

The situation to-night is but little changed from yesterday. The opposition to Ireland has progressed no farther towards solidifying and could now prevent him from receiving the nomination. It is expected that it will be given by acclamation.

PATTON IS GAINING GROUND

rapidly for land commissioner, and Richardson for superintendent. Craig is developing some strength, his attorney general, but Templeton's friends confidently predict his nomination on the third or fourth ballot. This depends largely on the attitude of the field composed of the other three candidates, and whether they finally unite or not, the failure of the committee on permanent organization to mention the two-thirds rule in favor of its retention. When the committee's offering it was presented this morning there were cries of no, all over the house, and not a single word of approbation.

Calhoun's address in opening the convention is the subject of general criticism, and while it was being read the convention was a perfect iceberg. J. E. McCombs of Montgomery is being urged for chairman of the executive committee. It is believed the convention will last

THREE DAYS AT LEAST.

One or two deadlocks are anticipated in making nominations which may protract it beyond even this. The free grass men are sadly in need of a leader. Their strength is even beyond but as yet there has been no effective organization. This will be attempted to-morrow. If Peter Smith or Judge Fleming were only here they would be practically masters of the situation, as there are no active supporters of the lease in the convention. A good many say they are opposed to free grass but in explaining that phrase give an entirely different definition from the free-grass men themselves.

ALL THAT IS NEEDED

is a thorough discussion to effect a great victory for the free-grass men.

A HIRED MAN

Ravishes and Murders the Wife of His Employer.

A Posse in Hot Pursuit and Lynching Probable.

GALVESTON, TEX., Aug. 19.—Three miles down the bayou on an island hidden from sight by high sand hills, an isolated dairy is kept by Chas. Juneman, who, together with his wife and hired man, are the only occupants of the extensive premises. This evening according to custom Juneman came to the city with milk, and on his return was greeted with the gory spectacle of his wife bleeding and insensible in bed from the double effects of a terrible hatchet wound in the head and an outrageous assault to which she had evidently been subjected. On being restored to consciousness Mrs. Juneman stated that feeling indisposed she threw herself on the bed and fell asleep. Shortly thereafter she was aroused by stealthy footsteps, and looking up she discovered the hired man. The recognition was mutual, but before she could divine his intentions he sprang upon her and dealt her a stunning blow on the head with a hatchet. After that she knew nothing of subsequent occurrences. Filled with horror at the brutal Juneman gave the alarm, the news spreading like wildfire. The neighbors congregated and a posse armed with a warrant for the arrest and at last accounts were scouring the island for the hired man, whose name, strange to say, Juneman does not know. The chances are, if the man is captured, there will be a coroner's inquest. Mrs. Juneman's injuries are considered dangerous.

GALVESTON, TEX., Aug. 19.—Later information from the scene of the murderous assault on Mrs. Juneman reveals the fact that after making the statement she related into an unconscious state and so remained until death came to her relief. A diligent inquiry in the neighborhood develops the name of the murderer and rapist to be Richard Richbach, a German, who did odd work on farms and dairies in the vicinity. All the avenues are closed and watched, though the chances are that he has escaped from the island. A post-mortem examination of the body of Mrs. Juneman shows the face and head terribly mangled and cut, making it a source of wonder how she ever survived long enough to make the statement.

A CHIEF OF POLICE.
Orders the Austrian Flag Down From Over the Consulate Door.

PITTSBURG, PA., Aug. 19.—Max Schamberg, the Austro-Hungarian consul to this city, yesterday hoisted a small Austrian flag over the door of the consulate in honor of the fifty-fourth birthday of the emperor of Austria, and Chief of Police Brauer, who has been making a vigorous fight against swinging signs and street obstructions, immediately ordered it down. Schamberg refused to comply with the order and Brauer entered suit to compel its enforcement. Schamberg claims the order to be a direct violation of the treaty between the United States and Austria, which states explicitly that the consuls can hoist a flag over the main entrance of the consulate in any city.

IT MAY BECOME A QUESTION OF DIPLOMACY.
PITTSBURG, PA., Aug. 19.—The differences between the Austrian consul, Max Schamberg, and the chief of police, Brauer, have not yet been adjusted and there is every prospect of the affair assuming proportions which will necessitate the intervention of Secretary of State and Baron Ignatz Von Seuffer, the Austro-Hungarian minister to the United States. Schamberg refused to recognize the authority of Brauer in ordering the Austrian flag taken down, and says if the latter forces his suit he will appeal to the secretary of state. He considers it an insult to the flag and is very indignant.

What We Are Coming To.
Chicago Herald.
It is evident that we are to have a campaign not of mere scandal but of obscenity. Politics will not mean this year the discussion of systems and policies of government, but vehement declamation, quiet conversation, angry controversy and confidential interchange of opinion as to the relations of the sexes.

The vicious effect of this situation of affairs it will be easy to imagine. That it exists and that probably nothing can prevent its continuance until the end of the campaign cannot be doubted. We cannot shut our eyes to the fact that the style of campaigning which now promises to be general will make politics a theme which ought not to be mentioned in the presence of ladies and children, and tend still further to intimidate decent and self-respecting men from taking active part in public affairs. The new departure appears to be no mere sporadic case of slander. It has broken out in every city and village where a party organ exists and the volume of nastiness increases rather than diminishes daily. Already we have promises from headquarters that still other and more terrible charges are in preparation and that they will be made public from time to time during the summer and fall. It would be doing the other party too much honor to suppose that it would not resort to the same tactics. The work of retaliation is already in progress. For every Republican Roland there will be a Democratic Oliver. Party organs already rendered foul and unfit for general circulation by their indecent publications, filthy puns and jokes, and obscene witlings, will become the sewers through which the vicious will wallow and in which the young will be contaminated. Politics and statesmanship, once the study of intelligent people, will, under this new dispensation, be degraded to the level of the brothel and become the sport of the strumpet. Instead of argument there will be salacious stories. In the place of calm and decent discussion to which ladies and children have in the past been invited, we shall have outrageous calumnies, broad obscenity and animated controversies on the social evil. Even the babes cannot be kept in ignorance of this immoral cyclone which has already penetrated with its fetid breath the home and the churches.

The assault made upon Mr. Cleveland is villainous and contemptible beyond the power of words fitly to describe. The onslaught on Mr. Blaine is even more dastardly, for which the assertion that his friends began that style of warfare will furnish no reasonable defense. It is too nauseating for pursuit. With one repeal of the original slander would I long before election have become the most powerful weapon in Cleveland's armory, destroying those who placed it there and bringing to his side thousands of decent men who would discountenance in any party the resort to such infamous methods of campaigning. Repudiated in kind, as it now is, it is probable that nothing can prevent a moral pestilence sweeping the land from ocean to ocean. In this wretched event no one expects that the tongue of slander will stop at truth or partial truth. Every device known to foul and unclean minds will be resorted to, and the character of no man or woman occupying positions of prominence will be safe.

A tremendous popular revulsion against this monstrous wrong at this time might perhaps deter zealous and unscrupulous partisans from continuing it, but nothing less than a sweeping and emphatic denunciation of the evil can prevent its spreading over the land like a plague. The independent press is powerful, but it cannot stem this tide of iniquity unaided. Party organs on both sides should be made to feel the weight of popular displeasure in the only place where their consciences can be reached—their cash-boxes. The man who takes one of them into his family will sow the seeds of moral disease, and the one who reads them himself will fault his own manhood and intelligence.

On the threshold of what promises to be the foulest and rottenest political campaign in American history, the Herald protests against the pollution that impends. From that loathsome contest it will not be Grover Cleveland or James G. Blaine who will emerge stained, bedraggled and shame-faced. It will be the American people. We can by one such conflict plant the seeds of immorality in the country so deep that a century of penitence will not suffice to uproot them. We can make ourselves the scorn of the world. We can disgrace the American name and character forever.

In no spirit of hostility to things religious, but with profound reverence for true Christian character—with hatred of shame and of hypocrisy, and a deep seated contempt of bigotry and narrow partisanship—the Herald cannot refrain from again directing attention to the fact that this irreverent, wicked and scoundrelly torrent of slander and corruption springs from the pulpits of Buffalo. Where it will and no man can now foretell.

Its effects are certain to be most far-reaching and disastrous, causing more mischief than all the sermons that can be preached in this generation can counteract. It may not be too late to stem the tide. People have shown themselves wiser and better than their teachers before this. If the American republic is not hope-
